E-Series Door Hardware

Intelligent Hardware offer many door hardware types. Below are the different types of door hardware that are available in our builder's range. Intelligent Hardware products are best by design to help you determine which is best for your home.

Tubular Latches

A mechanical fastener used mainly on internal doors where a lock is not usually required and is compatible with most levers or knobs. Door latches join the two surfaces together and then secures them in place using a strike plate on the opposite side. Available in a variety of sizes and two finishes to ensure you can replace like-for-like and match with your current decor.

Locks

The Intelligent Hardware mortice lock range is designed to be rebated inside the door to give a flush finish, meaning they are suited to work with wooden doors. With a range of security levels available Intelligent Hardware locks are the best choice for a door.

Levers

Intelligent Hardware, known for our accessible hardware packs, can provide the solutions needed to complete any normal door, fire door or bathroom door. We have been a part of the door hardware industry in the UK for many years, having built an impressive range of popular door levers, and our new levers for builder's are perfect for small or large projects.

TUBULAR LATCHES

The Intelligent Hardware Tubular Latches are versatile type latches which have been designed for all door types and fit either on the left or on the right side of a door.

The Intelligent Hardware Tubular Latches used mainly on internal doors are compatible with most levers or knobs. These high quality latches join the door and frame together and then secures them in place using a strike plate on the opposite side. Available in a large variety of sizes and two finishes to ensure you can replace like-for-like and match with your current decor.
